The distinctive resort seamlessly blends modern, contemporary design elements with Mayan-inspired textures and materials. Designed by the world-renowned Sordo Madaleno architecture group, the hotel's striking, open-air architecture reflects the local culture while incorporating natural elements throughout, including a cenote-inspired spa and the preservation of a section of sacred mangrove jungle on property to serve as a natural wildlife sanctuary.

ACCOMMODATIONS

The sophisticated retreat is comprised of 314 spacious guestrooms, including 36 suites, 20 oceanfront "air suites" and two presidential suites. A selection of lavish swim-up suites afford guests direct access to one of the resort's stylish infinity pools overlooking the beach.

Earth hues, and natural textures and tones are found in smooth gray stone, intricate water features and rich woods throughout the resort, designed to mirror the region's landscape. Grand Hyatt Playa del Carmen Resort features two on-site restaurants, each with an impressive show kitchen: La Cocina offers authentic, family-style Mexican and Caribbean fare, while the resort's signature ocean view restaurant, The Grill at 1-26 features a diverse selection of fresh seafood and prime steaks.

Chef Nadine Waechter Moreno, a Switzerland native and renowned chef for several award-winning properties, including Park Hyatt Tokyo, is at the helm of the resort's culinary program, where she has created inspired regional cuisine rooted in indigenous flavors and ingredients. With an emphasis on healthy eating throughout her menus, Chef Moreno showcases innovative, globally-inspired dishes incorporating fresh, seasonal produce sourced from local farms.
